

and she's been in a psychiatric hospital ever since.

that evening she noticed her left cheek was a bit red and itchy.

And one day she was lying on the beach when she fell asleep.

I had this friend at school and she went on holiday

And you'll never guess what happened.*

She couldn't go out or anything, so in the end she decided to burst it.

And over the next few days it got worse and a big itchy blister appeared.

Then she felt something brush across her face and woke up.

the blister got bigger and bigger until it covered the whole left side of her face.

and gave her some cream. But it didn't do any good and*

This is awful but it's absolutely true.*

Anyway, she didn't think much of it at the time, but*

All these baby spiders came running out all over her face!

to an island somewhere in the tropics.

So she went to the doctor but he just said it was some sort of rash

But the worst part was it drove her completely insane*

she saw this huge spider running away.

She looked around to see what it was and*

2 - Pair work - split dictation

This is awful but it's absolutely true. I had this friend at school and she went on holiday to an island somewhere in the tropics.

She looked around to see what it was and she saw this huge spider running away. Anyway, she didn't think much of it at the time,

So she went to the doctor, but he just said it was some sort of rash and gave her some cream. But it didn't do any good and the blister got bigger and bigger until it covered the whole left side of her face.

But the worst part was it drove her completely insane and she's been in a psychiatric hospital ever since.

And one day she was lying on the beach when she fell asleep. Then she felt something brush across her face and woke up.

but that evening she noticed her left cheek was a bit red and itchy. And over the next few days it got worse and a big itchy blister appeared.

She couldn't go out or anything, so in the end she decided to burst it. And you'll never guess what happened. All these baby spiders came running out all over her face!

3 - Complete text

This is awful but it's absolutely true. I had this friend at school and she went on holiday to an island somewhere in the tropics. And one day she was lying on the beach when she fell asleep. Then she felt something brush across her face and woke up. She looked around to see what it was and she saw this huge spider running away.

Anyway, she didn't think much of it at the time, but that evening she noticed her left cheek was a bit red and itchy. And over the next few days it got worse and a big itchy blister appeared. So she went to the doctor, but he just said it was some sort of rash and gave her some cream. But it didn't do any good and the blister got bigger and bigger until it covered the whole left side of her face.

She couldn't go out or anything, so in the end she decided to burst it. And you'll never guess what happened. All these baby spiders came running out all over her face! But the worst part was it drove her completely insane and she's been in a psychiatric hospital ever since.