

Past perfect simple and continuous - speaking practice

When I got home, my I found that my flat had been burgled.	You'd left a window open.
My legs were really stiff on Monday morning.	You'd been hiking on Sunday.
When I came back from my summer holiday, I got an electric bill for $3,000.	You'd forgotten to turn off the air conditioning before you went away.
When I took my 'white' shirts out of the washing machine, they were pink.	You'd put red and white clothes together and set the temperature too high.
The car skidded going round the corner even though the driver reduced speed.	It had been raining and the road was slippery.
I felt really sleepy this afternoon.	You'd eaten too much at lunch.
I got a call at work this morning to say my flat was on fire.	You'd forgotten to turn off the cooker.
Last night I heard a noise outside my house at 2 a.m. Three men were walking down the street singing loudly.	They'd been drinking.
When I got home, my sister had flour on her hands.	She'd been baking a cake.
I left some bread on the kitchen table last night but this morning it had gone.	Rats had eaten it.
My colleauge's husband divorced her.	She'd been having an affair with another man.
I couldn't turn on my computer this morning.	You'd forgotten to plug it in.
My mum came out of the kitchen laughing and crying at the same time.	She'd been cutting onions.
My colleague's face was red except around her eyes.	She'd been sunbathing with her sunglasses on.